Social Emotional Learning that sticks

Wise uses Virtual Reality to democratize access to emotion regulation skills and an interactive Learn-Do-Teach methodology for targeted practice, to reinforce long term behavioral change.

Like learning to throw a ball or riding a bike, this method allows individuals to explore, experience and practice skills for managing emotions, achieving goals and navigating relationships.

Experience for impact

Wise approaches learning from the Inside-Out to equip participants with the practical skills to build strong connections from themselves (Inside) to others and the world around them (Outside).

This is enhanced by the blended learning context whereby learning within Virtual Reality (Inside) is reinforced through the verbal and written self-reflective process, and teaching others the techniques (Outside).

Created by experts

Wise was developed by experts in education, psychology, Virtual Reality and animation who have extensive experience in the school environment.

“It’s like I can go somewhere else and calm down, then when I come back to the real world I’m ready and feeling better.”

“I like it, it calms me down, gets my mind off of the things that have gone wrong, and takes me to another place.”

“A few days ago when I was mad at home, I used box breathing to calm down”
